FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

March 1, 2011

INTRODUCING “THE EDUCATORS’ INSTITUTE”
An Oakland-based Professional Development & Training Facility
For Educators of All Kinds – Teachers, Administrators
Business Leaders, Community Leaders and Parents

*Facility Offers Educator and Business Courses, Rental Space
For Meetings and Training, Expert Faculty and Supporting Resources*

“The Educators’ Institute provides a powerful opportunity for teachers and administrators to acquire the skills and knowledge necessary for working successfully in urban school settings.” -- BOBBIE BROOKS, Educational Consultant and Co-founder of three non-profit organizations: Southern Alameda County Alliance of African American Educators, J.L. Davis Family Resource Center, and Southern Alameda County Regional Educational Alliance.

OAKLAND, CA – R.T. Fisher Educational Enterprises, Inc. is proud to announce its newest foray into the realm of education—The Educators’ Institute (EI), which is designed to be a professional development and training facility for educators of all kinds – particularly school teachers, site administrators and parents who are interested in expanding their personal and/or leadership abilities. Located at 520 3rd Street, Suite 109, Oakland, CA 94607, EI is conveniently situated within two blocks of Jack London Square; one block from a new safe and inexpensive city-owned parking garage; close access to public transportation; and within walking distance of a variety of restaurants and exciting visitor destinations. The facility, which is available to rent for meetings and training, offers several short-duration educator and business courses that are taught by a host of specialized instructors, and supported by ancillary reference and skilled human resources.

“We established The Educators’ Institute to inspire novice and experienced educators to expand their intellectual curiosity about ways they can positively contribute to the lives of the students, families, colleagues that they encounter and serve on a daily basis,” commented Robyn Fisher, president of parent company R.T. Fisher Educational Enterprises, Inc. “By providing experienced faculty members who “walk their talk” and who are able to engage and provoke thought into action, the Educators’ Institute exists to promote and create change agents of social justice and equity in today’s educational reform movement.”
