Editor's Corner

Thanks to Diane Bovenkamp, Rich Eskin, Gary Faulkner, Kaye Flamm, Jay Fleming, Lloyd Fox, Vickie Gray, Ola Horn, Roger Miller, Kay Muldoon-Ibrahim, Gordon Risk, Steve Sattler, and Jim Voeglein for their contributions to this issue. I thank the nearly twenty program presenters (listed below and featured in articles within this issue) who shared their wisdom, guidance, and expertise—please keep in touch.

This is the most comprehensive issue in (my) memory, covering all of the competitions and most program presentations (August through May). If we printed this issue out on paper, it might rival the thickness of a local telephone book (if they still distribute those in your area). The year-end placement results, BCC's latest foray into the PSA Interclub Competitions, etc., will appear in the next issue.

I hope that you have a happy and healthy summer with friends and family. Just drying out from three months of rain, thunderstorms and flooding will be a welcome change. Cheers!

Collector's Corner: Canon Canonet

Words and Photos By Gordon Risk

Gordon Risk © 2012
Diane Bovenkamp

This month's vintage gem is from Canon—the Canonet QL17—a semi-automatic rangefinder camera starting in 1960, produced through the late seventies.

The coronet series was a popular camera, sometimes called the poor man's Leica because of their economic price and sharp lenses. Although not interchangeable, different models came with either f2.8, f1.9, f1.7, 45mm or 40mm lenses.

About a dozen models were produced, the early ones with selenium meter cells. The model shown here has a battery powered CDS (cadmium sulphide) meters which gave auto metering (shutter priority) or the option of manual control. The lens is the f1.7, 40mm in a COPAL SV shutter going from 1 to 500th of a second, plus bulb. An advantage of a leaf shutter is that you can use flash synced up to a 500th. The QL stands for Quick Load of the film.

A disadvantage of these cameras is the use of mercury batteries which are 1.35v and not available today. There are adapters and other ways of getting around this, so there's no excuse not to try one of these poor man's Leicas.

In 1998, film-maker John Waters produced the film PECKER about a Baltimore boy from Hampden who became famous taking pictures with his Canonet. Check it out, but remember it is a John Waters film!

Poe Zella Event and Calendar Partnership With The Poe House

Photos and Words By Roger Miller; Kudos to the BCC Organizer: Michael Navarre

What a great celebration of the Baltimore Camera Club and the Poe House's joint venture to create an exhibit and a calendar. The event pictured below happened on January 20, 2018, at Zella's, the famous Union Square restaurant. Thank you Mike Navarre for all your work on developing this partnership!

(March 24, 2018) Photos By Roger Miller

Maryland Photography Alliance Seminar 'Odyssey of Light' was a very moving experience. The two presenters, Nikon Ambassador and lifestyle portrait photographer, Tamara Lackey (<https://tamaralackey.com/>), and National Geographic photographer Bruce Dale (<http://www.bruceale.com/>), shared their phenomenal images and their vision and creativity with the standing-room-only audience. Kudos to Steve Sattler (right in top image) for organizing this event.

Kay Muldoon-Ibrahim—Haiti: A Reverence for Life (August 24, 2017)

Notes from Kay: "Haiti was my last professional job, done just weeks before 9/11. I shot it pro bono for the Grant Foundation's Hospital Albert Schweitzer, and using my "ME camera," I was also able to shoot in a Vodou Village. It was fascinating. I was using three film cameras and the harsh lighting in many situations was difficult. Flash and tripod were not options."

Patty Hankins—Adding a Sense of Depth To Your Photos (October 5, 2017)

We live in a three dimensional world that our camera captures in only two dimensions. Patty Hankins of BeautifulFlowerPictures.com will be sharing both composition tips for use in the field and post-processing techniques you can use to add a sense of depth to your photos.

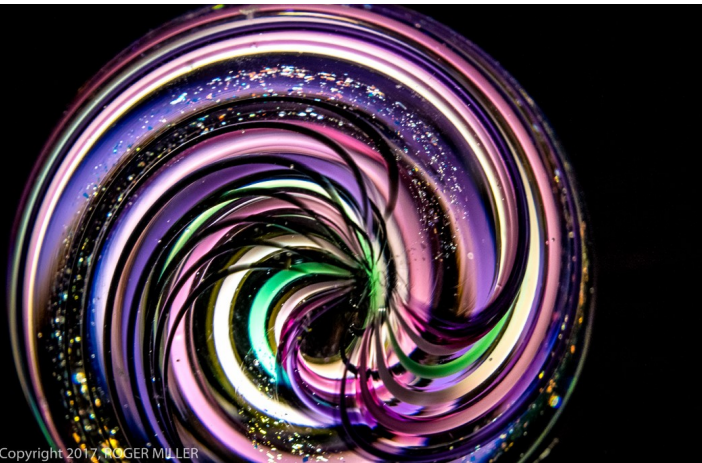

*Patty Hankins is a flower and landscape photographer in the Washington, DC area. She is the author of Wildflower Meditations: A Gift for the Spirit, which features 90 of her photographs of wildflowers. She leads photography workshops and photo tours related to flower photography, landscape photography, and photo editing. You can see more of her work at: <http://beautifulflowerpictures.com/patty-2/>*

Gary Faulkner—Infrared Photography: Capturing the Invisible Light (November 2, 2017) Photos By Roger Miller

In Their Words: Vickie Gray

Editor's Note: Vickie Gray gave a presentation to the club on November 16, 2017, called "Timeless Cuba." Vickie is a Baltimore-based photographer who is lucky enough to have two artistic pursuits – portrait photography and travel photography. Her travel photography portfolio includes images from France, England, Spain, Italy and Portugal, as well as several Caribbean countries. Thanks to her longtime partner Al Spoler, co-host of WYPR's Cellar Notes, much of Vickie's recent work focuses on key wine regions in Europe. Additionally, she is obsessed with Cuba and visits there annually. When she's not traveling, Vickie offers portrait photography from her studio on 25th Street in the Old Goucher neighborhood of Baltimore. Her work can be viewed at www.vickiegrayimages.com and www.vickiegraytravelphotos.com.

1. What was your very first camera?

I became interested in photography about 8 years ago. My first camera was a Panasonic Lumix point and shoot. In 2011, I purchased a Sony A580 DSLR. Last year I moved up to a Sony a7rii, a full-frame mirrorless camera, which is awesome. This week I bought a Sony RX10 IV, a high-end compact mirrorless camera with a 600mm equivalent zoom. I'm not a camera hoarder. Before I buy a new model I sell an old camera and maybe a lens. The most recent purchases are the only cameras I own. I've only used Sony and wouldn't move to another model. Now could someone get this information to Sony so I can become one of their brand ambassadors and get free stuff?

2. What do you consider essential gear to take on a shoot, particularly if you need to travel light?

A laptop, in my case a Lenovo Yoga 13 convertible that functions as a tablet as well as a laptop. Every day or so on the road I plug in my memory card, review my photos, and copy them to a thumb drive. Once they are copied I go through and delete duplicates or unacceptable images. Not only does this give me a backup of my images, but it helps cull down the number of photos I need to review when I get home.

3. What person, place, or thing inspired you to become a photographer? Why?

I've been influenced by many people and experiences. In the portrait realm, two local photographers, Steve Spartana and Mike Ciecieski, had a big impact. I worked with them in my corporate jobs, and realized through their photos how complex and compelling a simple portrait can be. Though I do other types of photography, portraits are my favorite. I never get tired of faces.

4. Which 3 people, living or dead, would you like to have for dinner and conversation? Why?

Oprah Winfrey, because who wouldn't like to hang out with Oprah?

Burt Glinn, the Magnum Photos photojournalist who covered the Revolution in Cuba in its first few days.

Alfred Stieglitz, though actually I'd rather take a master class with him than have dinner.

5. What is one piece of advice you would like to offer to others on following their bliss in photography?

Be proud of your work, no matter your stage of development or level of experience. Every photo represents your time and effort. Never apologize for your lack of skill, or for not being as good as others.

Lloyd Fox—Sports Photographer and Baltimore Sun Photojournalist (January 11, 2018) Photos By Roger Miller

Editor's Note: Lloyd Fox graduated from the University of Delaware with a degree in art and a concentration in photography in 1988. He worked for The Philadelphia Inquirer as a stringer and as a contract photographer while in college. He freelanced for United Press International from 1988-90, and was then hired as a staff photographer for The Sun in 1990. Over the course of 27 years, the newspaper has given Lloyd the opportunity to shoot thousands of assignments. Notable ones include, Presidential inaugurations, Ravens' Super Bowls, Cal Ripken's record setting 2131 game and his Hall of Fame induction, 1996 Olympics in Atlanta, NCAA basketball championships along with many news events from the unrest in Baltimore to the 2006 Amish school shootings and the Sago Mine disaster also in 2006. Kaitlin Corey—Photography and the Law (January 25, 2018)

Kaitlin is an attorney at Astrachan Gunst Thomas, P.C., and a member of the Maryland bar. A substantial part of Kaitlin's practice involves litigating copyright, trademark and unfair competition matters, negotiating business transactions and agreements, and clearance, protection, registration and licensing of trademarks and copyrights.

Kaitlin teaches Trademark and Unfair Competition Law at the University of Baltimore School of Law and the Maryland Bar Journal recently published an article she wrote titled, "'We Are Slant. Who Cares? We're Proud of That': Intersection of the Lanham Act and Free Speech" in its July/August 2017 edition.

In addition, Kaitlin handles the firm's tax matters. While in law school, Kaitlin took an interest in tax law and completed law school only nine credits short of those required for an LL.M. in Tax.

Lynn Silverman—MICA Faculty/Photographer (February 8, 2018)

Lynn Silverman received her BFA from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York, and her MA in Fine Art from Goldsmiths' College in London, England. She has participated in many solo and group exhibitions in Europe, Australia, and the United States. In addition to publishing four books, her work may be found in public collections in the Australia and Great Britain. In 2010, she was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to the Czech Republic. She currently teaches at the Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore. Her biographical sketch is at: https://www.mica.edu/About_MICA/People/Faculty/Faculty_List_by_Last_Name/Lynn_Silverman.html. You can view Lynn's images at her website: <http://lynnsilverman.com/portfolio>.

Tenney Mason—Instagram as a Source of Quality Photography (February 22, 2018) Photos By Roger Miller

Tenney Mason is a retired, award winning staff photographer and director of photography for Patuxent Publishing Co. — at one time a chain of 16 suburban newspapers serving the Baltimore/Washington corridor. After his retirement, Tenney became very active on Instagram, and over the past five years has averaged over 300 posts per year on his @tenneymason IG account. He uses the program as an archive and/or portfolio for his recent and past images; and as a source for discovering and following the amazing multitude of superb image makers who frequent the platform. <http://www.baltimoresun.com/news/maryland/howard/ellcott-city/ph-ho-lt-tenney-instagram-1123-story.html>

Bob Hansen—Panoramas (March 8, 2018)

Photos By Roger Miller and Ola Horn

Editor's Note: In his presentation, Bob answered many questions to enable us to make panoramas if we were not already doing so. Some club members were inspired to start taking panoramas, immediately after the session.

Kenny Epps—Impact Photography (March 22, 2018)

Editor's Note: Kenny always gives an informative and inspirational presentation. Visit his website for more information, and to see more of his work: <http://www.kennyeppsp photography.com/>

In Their Words: Jay Fleming

Club Photos by Roger Miller; Interview By Jay Fleming and Diane Bovenkamp

Editor's Note: Jay Fleming gave a presentation to the membership on April 5, 2018, titled "Working The Water: Photography on the Chesapeake Bay" Don't miss visiting Jay's website to see more of his images and learn where you can obtain his latest book www.jayflemingphotography.com. The image in the middle of the page was taken as projected on the screen as a sample from his book, and is therefore copyright to Jay Fleming.

Aubrey Bodine, Marion Warren and Charles Emory—
These photographers are all deceased, but they spent quite a bit of time on the Chesapeake Bay documenting what was normal at the time. Now that is history. Their work is an inspiration for me to continue documenting the Chesapeake.

5. What is one piece of advice you would like to offer to others on following their bliss in photography?

Get out and shoot as much as possible - shoot what you love and share your work with as many people as possible.

1. What was your very first camera?

My first camera was a Nikon N90s, a 35mm film SLR camera.

2. What do you consider essential gear to take on a shoot, particularly if you need to travel light?

When shooting on the water, I always take my pelican cases - they are so important for keeping my equipment dry and protected. They are not necessarily considered 'light' for carrying purposes, but they are essential for what I do. When traveling and shooting on land, I usually prefer to carry my gear in a backpack.

3. What person, place, or thing inspired you to become a photographer? Why?

My father first inspired me to get out and start using a camera. I started shooting with a SLR when I was 13. He helped me learn about photography at a young age, as I grew older and became more confident with the camera, I started shooting things that I was interested in - Chesapeake Bay, Fishing, wildlife, etc...

4. Which 3 people, living or dead, would you like to have for dinner and conversation? Why?

She will offer tips and resources to those who may be interested in traveling to that country. Vickie is a Baltimore-based photographer who is lucky enough to have two artistic pursuits – portrait photography and travel photography. Her travel photography portfolio includes images from France, England, Spain, Italy and Portugal, as well as several Caribbean countries. Thanks to her longtime partner Al Spoler, co-host of WYPR's Cellar Notes, much of Vickie's recent work focuses on key wine regions in Europe. Additionally, she is obsessed with Cuba and visits there annually. When she's not traveling, Vickie offers portrait photography from her studio on 25th Street in the Old Goucher neighborhood of Baltimore. Her work can be viewed at www.vickiegrayimages.com and www.vickiegraytravelphotos.com .

Thursday, February 22	Program 13	Tenney Mason: 'Instagram as a Source of Quality Photography' Tenney Mason is a retired, award winning staff photographer and director of photography for Patuxent Publishing Co. — at one time a chain of 16 suburban newspapers serving the Baltimore/Washington corridor. After his retirement, Tenney became very active on Instagram, and over the past five years has averaged over 300 posts per year on his @tenneymason IG account. He uses the program as an archive and/or portfolio for his recent and past images; and as a source for discovering and following the amazing multitude of superb image makers who frequent the platform. Tenney started making 8x8 prints of his photos several years ago, and recently had a one man show at the Glenelg Country School Gallery near Ellicott City. The title of the show was INSTAVISION. The goal was to create an Instagram experience on a gallery wall. Tonight Tenney will share some of his thoughts and opinions on Instagram's role as an outlet for outstanding imagery, and will talk about the logistics and rewards of producing an exhibit with a different twist. http://www.baltimoresun.com/news/maryland/howard/ellcott-city/ph-ho-lt-tenney-instagram-1123-story.html On Instagram @tenneymason

Thursday, May 3	Program 18	Burke Seim from Service Photo Burke and reps from Service Photo will discuss printer & printing papers and provide a lot of info about new cameras, lenses, lighting, medium format, mirrorless, rental gear, trade-ins, warranties, and much more! Burke invites everyone to bring their questions about gear itself, the companies that make it, the marketplaces where camera gear is sold, and everything related. No topic is off limits. Burke Seim says that he purchased Service Photo in 1991, "...when I realized that it was being mismanaged by the owner at that time – who just happened to be my father. I saw the opportunity to change the business dramatically into a 'Pro Stockhouse' for film, paper, chemicals, & professional camera gear. Somewhere along the way, digital photography came along and changed everything but we were able to grow throughout that change because we were already used to working in a high volume and low profit margin atmosphere, while other stores that relied on their minilabs for profit went out of business, and the internet grew, and grew. Service Photo is now the ONLY specialty photography related retailer in Maryland, and one of approximately 150 in the USA. The camera industry is a VERY difficult place to survive, but we've found a way so far – and we hope to be around for a long time!" https://www.servicephoto.com/

Thursday, March 17	Program 19	Body of Work. Members of BCC will submit portfolios of their photographic work to Lynn Silverman for assessment and feedback in advance of the meeting. During the meeting, Lynn will evaluate the images and give feedback on the selection.
May 18-20	Spring Trip	2018 Spring Trip to Western Maryland and Lonaconing Silk Mill On May 19, from 9am to 1pm, we will have access to the Lonaconing Silk Mill for photography purposes. The mill, once operated by the Klotz Throwing Company, was abandoned in 1957 due to a labor dispute and was left completely untouched. The access is granted by the owner of the building for a fee of 100.00 per person which is paid directly to the owner. The money is used for restoration of the building which badly needs repairs. Accommodations are at the historic Gunter Hotel (301-689-6511) in downtown Frostburg which is a quaint college town.

Thursday, June 21	Program 21	Tom Beck: 'Photographs or Thought-o-graphs: Science, Photography and the Paranormal' Tom Beck is Chief Curator Emeritus at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) and an Affiliate Associate Professor of Art. Tom will explore whether the images that photographers make are completely in front of the camera, or does photographic vision begin in the mind? Where is the creative impulse located—in the photographer's mind or in the subject? Consideration of the paranormal photographs of Jule Eisenbud and Ted Serios may lead to some interesting insights to these and other questions related to making photographs.
